Wembley Park: our showcase

Quintain continues to transform Wembley Park from an unloved expanse of surface car parks, as it was in 2002 when we acquired the land, to a vibrant and self-sustaining neighbourhood for London.

We are leading its multi-billion-pound transformation by delivering new homes, restaurants, shops, offices and hotels, all of which bring employment, strong community and a unique way of life to the land around the National Stadium.

Wembley Park epitomises everything Quintain stands for; expert Masterplanning, design, development, delivery, Build to Rent letting and operations, placemaking, and ongoing estate management.

An aerial photograph of Wembley Park in London. The central feature is the Wembley Stadium, a large oval structure with a distinctive white arch roof. Surrounding the stadium is a dense urban development consisting of numerous modern, multi-story residential and commercial buildings. Some buildings have unique architectural features, such as curved facades or colorful facades. There are also parking lots with many cars and some green spaces interspersed among the buildings. The overall scene depicts a major urban regeneration project.

Over the past two decades, we have worked in close partnership with the London Borough of Brent, the Greater London Authority, Transport for London, Network Rail and numerous other stakeholders to obtain a series of Masterplan approvals that will deliver over 8,500 new homes, three quarters of a million square feet of office space, and half a million square feet of retail and leisure space.

And with state-of-the-art connectivity built into our infrastructure, our Smart City design enables ultra-fast broadband, fibre to every home, a full 4G network and Envac, our revolutionary waste removal system.

In the foreground, there are several green fields, some of which are being developed into sports grounds. A large, curved residential development is visible in the center, surrounded by greenery. To the right, there are more commercial and residential buildings. In the background, a large body of water is visible, and the city of Dublin can be seen in the distance. The text "We are one of the largest mixed-use developers in Ireland" is overlaid on the top left of the image.

Quintain established the Quintain Ireland platform in 2019 and were subsequently appointed Development Managers for three significant strategic developments in and around Dublin. Since then, planning was successfully granted and development underway across a landbank that can accommodate over 9,000 residential units and almost 3 million sq ft of commercial space. Having scaled the platform, Quintain recently achieved a successful exit from the Irish market and Quintain Ireland remains the third largest developer in Ireland.

Quintain's building designs are influenced by extensive research into customer lifestyles and practical needs.

At Wembley Park, our design brief includes detail on building aesthetics, interior styles, amenity spaces, fitness provision, work at home spaces, apartment layouts and finishing.

Our developments attract a wide demographic through unique interiors and varied amenity provision. We support retention through practical design features such as apartment layouts and on-site support teams.

iQ achieved an average of a 99% occupancy rate in 5,183 bedrooms from 13 properties across nine UK cities.

Quintain divested of the iQ shareholding in 2014 to our JV partner in the project, Wellcome Trust.

Masterplanning: iconic

We have built a strong track record as a trusted partner in creating exceptional neighbourhoods.

Following a land swap in 1999 we acquired a large site next to what was the Millennium Dome, now The O2, and secured planning permission for a 14 million square foot mixed-use Masterplan across the 150-acre site.

At that time, it was the largest single planning application in London.

We facilitated AEG's entry into the London market; a vital party in the conversion of the Millennium Dome into The O2, a landmark entertainment venue.

With the Masterplan permission secured, Quintain was also instrumental in delivering the early phases of development at Greenwich Peninsula. This included the 150,000 square foot Ravensbourne College, 440,000 square foot office space at 14 Pier Walk and 6 Mitre Passage, and a 280-room student block.

Partnerships: the Quintain way

Establishing and nurturing our long-term partnerships is one of our core principles; it's the way we do business at Quintain. We have a framework of contractors at Wembley Park some of whom we have worked with for over 17 years. We develop deep working relationships based on mutual trust and a sharing of values, enabling our contractors to deliver outstanding results.

We are proud to be in partnership with Samsung, having signed a deal for their inaugural leasing agreement with a property company, to supply state-of-the-art digital appliances to over 3,000 homes at Wembley Park. We have also signed similar deals with John Lewis & Partners and Kohler. In 2019 we formed a partnership with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra that will see the Orchestra move its headquarters to Wembley Park, furthering our cultural ambitions for the neighbourhood.

“The history of a place can shape its future and deliver added value; economic, social and environmental.”

Heritage: embraced

At Quintain we understand the importance of heritage to communities. We are experts in undertaking significant developments of scale and complexity.

We renovated the iconic Grade II listed The OVO Arena Wembley (formerly Wembley Arena). In addition to preserving the original 1934 Empire pool beneath the auditorium, we introduced state-of-the-art acoustic treatments to transform the sound quality for events.

The Quintain perspective: forward-facing

Arena Square

We offer a holistic approach to the built environment, looking beyond the present and to the long-term future benefits of community spaces.

When reconfiguring the OVO Arena Wembley, our Masterplanners had the foresight to rotate the building to face the National Stadium. This meant that the two venues could 'connect' across Arena Square. The square was the first major piece of public realm we completed at Wembley Park. With fountains, music and lighting displays incorporated into the infrastructure, it proves particularly popular with families in the summertime, and with residents and visitors alike in the build-up to major events.

Project Management: exceptional

Behind every building is a solid foundation and our team at Quintain is no different. Worldclass developments demand specialist planning and support. Our team is diverse. We have a market-leading experience alongside young innovators, local and international specialists, challengers and technical experts, all performing a broad range of disciplines.

Our hands-on and personal approach gives confidence that our team will realise the vision and ambition of any site.

Quintain: a commitment to excellence

In a joint venture with Aviva Investors plc, Quintain built the Bristol and Bath Science Park; a 59-acre innovation hub and home to the region's science and technology industry.

Designed with a centralised energy centre, the buildings achieved BREEAM Excellent, and the public realm and engineering were awarded CEEQUAL Excellent.

Vertical integration: the Quintain solution

We are proud of our in-house team; we have the experience, skills, reputation and credentials to be a steadfast long-term development and portfolio management partner.

Under the expert guidance of Jim Eaton-Terry, our Chief Technology Officer, our Quintain team is in place to ensure that technology underpins everything we do from data management, marketing, resident and retail apps, pioneering methods of construction, website development and utilities management to customer service.

This market-leading framework ensures we operate our buildings in the most sustainable way.
